Soft and gentle

After giving birth, the skin in the intimate area is particularly sensitive. That's why the Neno Panti postnatal panties are made of soft materials that are very gentle and minimize the risk of additional irritation and chafing.

Super breathable

Adequate ventilation helps to maintain a high level of wearing comfort. With postnatal underwear it is possible to wick away moisture and maintain a dry environment, preventing the development of infections.

Ideal after caesarean section

After a caesarean section, the wound on your abdomen is still fresh and sensitive. Neno Panty have been designed to provide you with optimal support and protection for this area. They effectively cover the wound, protecting it from irritation and unwanted contact with external factors.

neno care series

Durable material

The material of the Neno Panti is very durable. The panties do not lose their shape or elasticity during daily use. This ensures that you can be confident that everything is under control.

Comfort without pressure

Excessive pressure causes additional pain and discomfort, especially around C-section wounds. Neno postpartum underwear provides gentle support, allowing for better blood circulation and wound healing.

нено care series

Flexible material

The postnatal panties made from stretchy material perfectly adapts to body's changes after childbirth, without squeezing or irritating sensitive areas. The flexible fabric allows for freedom of movement and comfort, which every new mother needs.

Good support for postnatal pads

Postpartum underwear is an essential aid during the postpartum period, as it helps keep pads securely in place. You can use it without worrying about leaks or maintaining proper hygiene.

nenocare series

Reusable

Neno Panty has been designed for multiple uses. Simply hand wash them in lukewarm water with a mild detergent, and they're ready to be worn again.

нено care series

High state

The high waist not only enhances comfort while wearing the underwear but also provides excellent protection for the C-section wound, keeping it covered and allowing it to heal properly at the right pace.
